

This hydraulic cooler is typical of the units used at the Glen-Gery York and Mid-Atlantic Plants to recirculate cooling water instead of discharging it into the public sewer system. Recycling cooling water reduces feed water use and wastewater discharge, saving both natural resources and money.